Federal Reclamation Service Director Reviews Boulder Proposals

SALT LAKE, March 24.—That there is ample water in the upper basin of the Colorado and its tributaries to provide all the feasible projects in Utah, Colorado, Wyoming and New Mexico and leave supply for the lower basin sufficient to water the possible projects there, is the opinion of A. J. Davis, director of the United States Reclamation service, who arrived in Salt Lake last night.

Mr. Davis attended the recent session of the Colorado river commission on the Colorado river problems at Phoenix, Ariz., and will be in Salt Lake for the meetings scheduled for next week which Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover, chairman of the commission will attend. Mr. Davis said that his conclusions concerning irrigation projects in the upper basin are reached after 28 years of study of the problems involved, including the measurement of the waters which the Colorado and its tributaries carry annually.

INSPECT SITE

The director of reclamation was accompanied to Salt Lake by F. E. Weymouth, chief engineer of the reclamation service. These two officials came directly to Salt Lake from a personal investigation of the Boulder canyon project, where they visited a proposed damsite for the undertaking in Black canyon.

Director Davis has recommended the adoption of the Boulder canyon reservoir site, the damsite, however, being as yet a matter for further investigation. The Boulder canyon project is altogether feasible and the reclamation service, together with Secretary of the Interior Fall, hope to get a congressional appropriation to finance the undertaking.

Falling a federal appropriation for the undertaking, Director Davis indicated last night that certain southern California communities, including Los Angeles, Riverside, San Diego, Long Beach and others, which would benefit directly and indirectly, would undertake to provide the necessary funds. But, inasmuch as the project would not only repay interest, but capital invested as well, Director Davis expressed the opinion that congress may think enough of the plan to make the desired appropriation.

UTAH PROJECTS

Today Mr. Davis will confer with officers of the Utah water storage association relative to projects within the state, and will through meetings with various persons concerned with irrigation and reclamation gain first-hand information of the aims and desires of this section. During the course of his stay here, he expects to visit the Strawberry project and other completed and projected irrigation schemes.

Because of the lack of appropriations and the inability of some projects to make repayments as rapidly as desired, the department in the present fiscal year will have expended only between $200,000 and $300,000, he said. Payments have been delayed principally as a result of the agricultural market reverse of the past two years, Mr. Davis explained, and added that reports to his office at the present time indicate that the improving financial conditions of agriculture in general, will make possible the faster repayment of funds and the consequent expansion of the department's work.

The Smith-McNary bill, now before congress, has the fullest support of the department, Mr. Davis said, and the hope is that the measure will become law. The bill, if passed, will be of vast importance to the west and to the cause of economic reclamation and irrigation in all parts of the country.

W. H. Coppedge Victim of Crossing Accident Near Payette

BOISE, Idaho, March 24.—W. H. Coppedge of Boise, died yesterday morning from injuries received when an Oregon Short Line freight train crashed into an automobile, he was driving across the tracks at the Payette crossing, about three miles east of Payette. He lived but 30 minutes following the accident.

According to railroad officials, Coppedge was driving his car on the road which parallels the railroad track between Weiser and Payette at the time local No. 523, the freight train from Huntington to Weiser, was coming south. After keeping up with the train for some distance, it is stated he put on more speed and attempted to cross the track at Payette crossing, but the engine and the automobile port on the track, and the car, being demolished.

Coppedge came here ten years ago from Missouri and until a year ago was one of the owners of Idaho's Modern Business college. Selling his interest in the business college, he soon afterward took up the life insurance business and was employed by the Pacific Mutual Life Insurance company.

NEW SET OF PAPERS SENT FOR MYERS

SALT LAKE, March 24.—A new set of requisition papers will be forwarded today to Florida for the return from Miami of Milton D. Joseph, believed to be J. P. Myers and wanted in Salt Lake, for the embezzlement of $24,000.

The new papers will be in connection with the extradition of Joseph, who shortly after his disappearance from Salt Lake about eight years ago. Apparently they are intended for use in the extradition of Joseph, should the supreme court of Florida uphold the contention of counsel for Joseph that the statute of limitation against extradition charges against the man at this late date.

Governor Hardee's telegram to Governor Mabey says that the circuit court at Miami has sustained the warrant of extradition for Milton D. Joseph, and the petitioner for the writ of habeas corpus is appealing to the supreme court. The legal department of Florida suggests that Governor Mabey immediately forward a requisition based on the first proceedings charging Joseph with the offense, and attaching a copy of such proceedings with a certified copy of the warrant, together with a certificate of the highest possible authority showing that the proceedings are regular.

SALT LAKE POLICE SUED FOR OGDEN BOY

SALT LAKE, March 24.—In the suit filed against the city of Salt Lake in the Third district court yesterday by H. M. Rich, guardian of Frank Blanchard, 11 years of age, and the son of Mrs. Clara Blanchard, employed by the John Scowcroft Sons & Co. of Ogden, it is charged that Thomas W. Dee and George L. Chase, two Salt Lake policemen, were driving their car at more than 45 miles per hour when they ran down and injured the boy.

The allegation asserts that the two policemen knocked the boy from his bicycle with their car on Beck street near Beck's Hot Springs, and that as a result, the lad suffered a fractured skull, a fractured leg and ankle, and that since that time he has been in such poor physical condition that he is unable to attend school.

The lad with a companion, also on a bicycle, was on his way home from Salt Lake when he was struck. In the report of the accident made by the policemen at the time, they asserted that they were driving at a moderate rate of speed, and that the boy turned his bicycle into the side of their machine.

Witnesses from California, who at the time were on their way to the Yellowstone national park, will be called to testify, as well as a number of persons who are said to have seen the policemen and alleged companions both prior and subsequent to the injury to young Blanchard. Certain witnesses, it is said, will testify that the policemen were traveling at a high rate of speed, and that, as alleged in the complaint, no warning was sounded. Others are expected to testify concerning the alleged women occupants of the car and of the condition of the drivers.

Both policemen have stoutly denied the charges of intoxication or that they were traveling at high speed. The action asks damages of $15,000 and costs of medical attention given Blanchard. Clarence E. Beck of the law firm of Beck & Marioneau represents the guardian.

WOMAN RUSTLER IS DENIED REHEARING

CHEYENNE, Wyo., March 24.—Mrs. Anna Richey, the first woman to be convicted of "cattle rustling" in Wyoming in many years, will start for the Colorado state prison in a few days as the result of action of the Wyoming supreme court yesterday in denying a rehearing of the case against her.

Nothing but a pardon by Governor Carey now can prevent her from serving the sentence of from one to six years imprisonment imposed by District Judge Donald, following her conviction of the charge of stealing three head of cattle.

Mrs. Richey is the daughter of a widely known stock man at Lincoln county. Her incarceration at the Colorado prison is necessitated because Wyoming has no provision for women prisoners.

PARTITION OF GEM STATE IS OPPOSED

POCATELLO, Idaho, March 22.—A protest against dividing the state into two parts as suggested in the last legislature was made last night at a meeting of the Rotary club. The action was taken at the request of the Rotary club of Moscow. The matter will come up for discussion at the district Rotary meeting at Missoula, and the local club will instruct its delegates to this convention to oppose any segregation of parts of Idaho, Montana and Washington as a new state, to be called, as suggested, Lincoln.

BRIGHAM BISHOP IS LAID AT REST

BRIGHAM, March 24.—All business was suspended in this community Wednesday afternoon as a mark of respect during the funeral services at the tabernacle for Bishop Thomas H. Blackburn. There was a procession of floral tributes from the various organizations in the ward and from the wards of the city. Many relatives from distant points in Utah and Idaho, as well as all of the daughters of Bishop Blackburn who reside in Idaho were present.

Nepht J. Valentia, first counselor to Bishop Blackburn, conducted the services and was the first speaker. Others who spoke included John H. Horsley, Peter Knudson, President N. Norman Lee, Bishop Brigham Wright, Bishop David P. Burt, Bishop Lorenzo N. Stohl of Salt Lake, Apostle Judger Clawson, Chairman William Bailey of the state board of equalization, Victor E. Madsen and William C. Horsley.

FIND NO TRACE OF ALLEGED SLAYER

MONTICELLO, March 24.—Although a sheriff's posse has combed the country in this vicinity, no trace of Leroy Stevens, suspected slayer of Charles Bradford and his nephew, George Bradford, had been found late last night. The shooting took place Monday afternoon at a point several miles east of here.

It was announced that the posse had lost all track of Stevens and it is not known whether he is secluded in the heavy timber near his farm, or has gone south through Montezuma canyon.

Owing to the bitterness of the feeling roused by the double killing, it has been decided not to hold funeral services for the two Bradfords—this being the wish of surviving members of the family—and burial will take place in the Monticello cemetery tomorrow afternoon.

The verdict of the coroner's jury, which held an inquest over the bodies of the murdered men Wednesday afternoon, has not been made public and will not be given out until Stevens is arrested or surrenders.

FARMERS TO BUILD MUTUAL CREAMERY

WILLARD, March 24.—Tentative plans toward the formation of a cooperative creamery to handle milk and cream products of Mantua, Perry and Willard, were discussed at a meeting of the Box Elder county farm bureau held here yesterday.

It was decided to build a creamery either at Perry or Willard, to be owned and operated by the patrones. Only those sending milk and cream will be permitted to own stock. It is likely the plant will be placed at Willard, as the truck delivering milk from Mantua also could bring milk from Perry by trailer, thus cutting the cost materially, as another truck would be needed from Willard if the creamery were at Perry.

The bureau also took up the matter of signing the potato crop with the Boyle agency. This company will handle all crop at the producers' risk for 10 per cent commission. Only farm bureau members are permitted to sign, however, as the agency is being brought in by the bureau members, who feel that those farmers not willing to become members should not benefit by organization plans.

Such a plan, however, materially affects the farmers at Willard. There are about 160 farmers in Willard, but only 35 are bureau members.

It was decided also to plant 15 acres of cantaloupes, as the soil and climate are favorable to this crop.

WHISTLES WILL BE PROVIDED BLIND

SALT LAKE, March 23.—The public safety department, at the request of Murray Allan, blind, and traveling teacher for the school for the deaf and blind of Ogden, is to provide whistles for blind persons that are not escorted on the streets. Mr. Murray was to confer with Chief of Police Joseph E. Burdige today regarding the details of the plan.

The matter has been considered for some time, and yesterday Mayor Nesbitt, A. F. Barnes, commissioner of public safety and others conferred with Chief Burdige.

The plan is to have a uniform whistle, a long blast of which is to announce the blind person. This is to serve as a warning for street cars and automobiles and to summon patrolmen. The blind persons to whom these whistles will be distributed are to use them only on necessary occasions, as when they desire to cross a street.
